Dear Cleveland Indians Organization,

We are the Native American Guardian's Association, the National voice of the "silenced majority" of Native people who support the respectful use of our names and imagery by sports teams by margins of 90 percent. You may have seen our organization referenced in publications such as The Washington Post, Sports Illustrated, Forbes Magazine plus a myriad other regional print and broadcast media sources. Similar to the plight your organization faces as a Native themed sports team, the press coverage we receive is usually negative. This however does not dismay us as we like your organization knows, these respectful Native names and images do nothing but recognize and honor our people.

Our organization along with the vast majority of individual American Indians across the nation were delighted to see your organization intends to stand by your name and logo. We would be interested in discussing partnership opportunities with your organization. Please contact us via email at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

NAGA Leadership Team

Respectfully,
